

WORKING WITH YOU TOWARD POSITIVE FAMILY LAW SOLUTIONS

Ancaster Divorce Lawyer & Family Mediator Helping You Craft Enduring Solutions

Family law can be complicated. You may feel overwhelmed and vulnerable. Your family may experience painful emotions, financial upheaval, and changes to routines at home, work, and school. You need good legal advice. You need an experienced and compassionate family law professional.

Experienced Ancaster divorce lawyer and family mediator Lesley Matthewson established Family Law Solutions to help separating and divorcing couples create mutually acceptable and enduring solutions to family law problems. Family Law Solutions helps families going through the difficult and stressful process of separation and divorce. We take a constructive, respectful, and caring approach to separation and divorce – an approach that considers the parties' feelings, serves their important interests, and restructures family relationships.

Collaboration, Not Confrontation

Family Law Solutions is a family law resolution practice. It's all we do.

The conflict-based (court) approach to family law problems can be emotionally painful as well as financially exhausting. There are alternatives. You can choose to resolve family law problems without going to court, in a principled, respectful, and dignified manner.

Family Law Solutions helps clients manage family law problems through collaborative family law, mediation, or traditional out-of-court settlement negotiations (lawyer-to-lawyer).

Collaborative family law and mediation are private, problem-solving processes that allow couples active participation in and control over the decisions about their family's future after separation and divorce. These processes recognize, respect, and advance the needs of the parties and their children.

Principled and constructive resolution of family law disputes is particularly important between partners who want to continue their roles as involved parents and who are concerned about minimizing the effects of separation and divorce on their children. Animosity (which often flourishes in the traditional court system) wounds the parties and their children deeply, with long-lasting, sometimes irreversible, effects on family relationships.

Your Family, Your Way

Family Law Solutions works with you and guides you through the process of separation and divorce. We will help you retain control over important decisions affecting your family. We will help you find the answers to your questions, like:

- How will my partner and I effectively parent our children after separation and divorce?
- How will we both support our children and ourselves?
- How will we divide our property and share our debts?

Our experienced Ancaster divorce lawyer will provide additional resources, including referrals to other professionals for counseling, financial planning, debt and credit management, and other services as necessary to help you through this difficult time.

Family Law Solutions will stand behind you as a team, supporting, advising, and encouraging you as you adjust to the personal changes brought on by separation and divorce. You will feel empowered to take an active role in creating equitable, satisfying, and enduring solutions to your family law problems.

Contact Family Law Solutions today to schedule an initial consultation at no cost and no obligation to you. We will discuss your circumstances, educate you about your options, and help you evaluate the best approach to solve your family law problems. Our Ancaster divorce lawyer provides dedicated, caring, and effective services to our clients. Let Family Law Solutions help you.
